Intended Use	:	A sterile, trauma covering used to maintain the stability of a burn patient en-route to a burn centre or hospital. The device is intended to be applied at the emergency site and is used to prevent burn progression, minimise trauma, and provide protection against contamination.

Aero Healthcare, after consultation with the Therapeutic Goods Administration (TGA), is conducting a Medical Device Recall of the above PE Burn Sheets. We are contacting you as the potentially affected product may have been supplied to your organisation.

Problem

ABS6090 is a sterile device. The product is packed in a sealed pouch providing a microbiological barrier to maintain product sterility over its shelf-life. During handling, if any abnormal forces are applied to a specific sealed edge, the pouch may open resulting in loss of microbiological barrier and sterility, potentially leading to a secondary infection.

This problem does not affect any batches of ABS6090 that were supplied prior to September 2018. The product is supplied individually or as part of a first aid kit (see full list of affected kits in Appendix 1).

Action Required

 If you are a user, please inspect the pouch carefully (particularly at the edge opposite the 'peel to open' edge) and do not use the product if the pouch sealing is broken as shown in images below.
